

Foster Care to Fashion Innovator
By
LaTeal M Pierre

Monica Ellis, the CEO, and founder of Revampdbyme is serving as the Ambassador for Prom Expo Unlimited. As a self-taught creative fashion designer, Monica's journey from humble beginnings started with an innovative approach to thrifting and revamping clothing, transforming her passion into a successful business venture. Her entrepreneurial spirit and unique design sensibility that was born out of necessity have garnered her recognition and serve as a testament to her exceptional contributions to the fashion industry. She has designed pieces for Erica Campbell, Fantasia, and Grammy award winner Tasha Cobbs Leonard.

In addition to her achievements in fashion, Monica is a devoted mother to a 5-year-old son. This role fuels her unwavering commitment to providing him with a life free from the financial constraints she faced growing up in foster care. Monica's experiences have shaped her creative vision, as she draws inspiration from her childhood and the challenges she overcame.

Monica's role as the Ambassador for Prom Expo Unlimited holds special significance, given her background of growing up in foster care. Her journey from overcoming obstacles to becoming a successful designer makes her the ideal advocate for an event aimed at empowering foster kids by providing them with everything they need for prom. Monica's dedication to her craft sets her apart as a dynamic force in fashion, inspiring others to embrace their unique stories and triumph over challenges.